

Where do you sleep?

Recreational vehicles are built for vacations and camping trips. They are not made to be a permanent home. If you sleep in a camper or tent at night, you can still go to school, even without:

- paperwork
- proof of residency
- and, you may be eligible for additional services

No one should miss school because of where they sleep at night.

The McKinney-Vento federal law protects children and youth who are sleeping somewhere that isn't "fixed, regular or adequate" and requires IMMEDIATE SCHOOL ENROLLMENT in a school where they sleep at night, and gives students the right to REMAIN IN THEIR SCHOOL OF ORIGIN (where they last attended classes).
